NEW TRACK A BEAUTY. Metropolitan Jockey Club Comes In Much Praise-Turf Talk.

August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey Club, visited the Jamaica track yesterday and was highly pleased with the new race-course. Mr. Belmont congratulated President W. H. Reynolds of the Metropolitan Jockey Club and Scoretary G. F. Dobson upon the splendid accommodations provided for the public and for the taste shown in laying out the whole pleast Mr. Belmont such a heart-breaking quality that few believed he could keep it up.
When Fuller had straightened him out for the run to the far turn, Royal, with O'Neil up was the first to challenge him, but Blackstock shook him off, and then came the veteran Herbert with top weight, who was hustled along by the energetic Burns. Herbert dropped back and Heno was the next challenger. Rounding the elliptical turn Iniunction with the popular Keepe colors, made laying out the whole plant. Mr. Belmont laying out the whole plant. Mr. Belmont made several suggestions which the officials of the new jockey club will immediately carry out. He said that the track was a credit nction with the popular Keene colors, made strong bld for the lead and for a moment to the men who built it and a decided acquisi-tion to the local circuit.

carry out. He said that the track was a credit to the men who built it and a decided acquisition to the local circuit.

The Jamaica track is bound to become one of the most popular in the metropolitan circuit. It is tastefully laid out and those who were in a position to criticise yesterday said that it is one of the most picturesque racecourses in America. It might be said to be a reproduction of Morris Park on a small scale, though there is accommodation there for as many people as at the Westchester course or at Sheepshead Bay. There is a seating capacity for nearly 11,000, while the broad lawn, raised in such a manner as to afford a perfect view of the track, can accommodate 20,000 more. The grand stand, seating 7,000, is constructed of steel and wood and built on a curve which gives an unobstructed view of every part of the grounds. The field stand, which puts the Aqueduct grand stand in the shade, seats 3,500, while between it and the grand stand is the betting ring, pronounced the largest ever built, in which there is room for 300 layers.

The clubhouse, connected with the grand stand by a bridge, is undoubtedly the finest building of its kind in this part of the country. It is four stories high, finished in oak, and contains a large dining room with a seating capacity for 300 guests. This is on the second floor, from which one may pass to a reviewing balcony where there are seats for 600. On the floors above there are twenty private apartments with bathrooms fitted up in lavish style, while there is also room on the ground floor for the officers of the racing association, together with a reception room remarkable stamina and under Fuller's careful handling he ran Injunction off his feet.
Coming down around the bend into the short homestretch Blackstock, with magnificent stride and never ceasing speed gradually drew away from the nearest competitors and had the race well in hand at the last sixteenth had the race well in hand at the last aixteenth.

But Heno under a punishing drive from Martin came again. The Falsetto colt having disposed of Yellow Tall and Dr. Saylor, for a moment it looked as if he might overhaul the fifing leader, but Blackstock, never faltering and responding to another call from his clever rider held Heno safe and won a splendid victory with something to spare. The time 1146 2-5, was fast considering the soft condition of the track.

was a superb day for the opening of the ropolitae Jockey Club's new track, and in the great growd arrived upon the scene re was nothing but praise for the comeness of everything, especially the beauty rehitecture and the thoughtfulness shown the gromoters of the enterprise toward coming to the public. The growd could a been twice as large and yet everybody all have been able to view the races withcraning of secks or standing on tipoes. Just beyond the clubhouse, over another bridge, is the jockeys' building.

Over still another bridge one may pass to the paddock, built of steel and wood, in which there are twenty-two stalls.

m this direction the problem of picking winners did not prove so easy as at Aqueduct, for only two favorites and a second choice enabled the students of form to dig into the layers' bank rolls.

As a side issue to the Excelsior Handicap the Bushwick Stakes for two-year-olds at nve furlongs attracted a world of attention. Six of the original starters named were scratched, while H. T. Oznard's Miss Eugenie, John W. Schorr's Molinos and the Lotos Stable's Ishlana were added, making nine to go. Newton Bennington's Bath Beach was a hot favorite at 3 to 2, while Molinos, who opened first choice at 5 to 5, receded to threes. Foxhall Keene's Palmbearer was third in demand, at fours. Masedo, with Shaw up, made the running, attended by Eace King, Molinos and Bath Beach to the last furlong, where lannon got to work on Palmbearer, and in a thrilling finish the latter won by a head with Masedo beating Molinos a neck. The time was 1302.

The opening event was a handicap at six furlongs in which the talent was divided as to Frank Farrell's Duelist, who closed favorite at 13 to 10, and "Pittsburg Phil's" Stevedore, heavily supported at 3 to 2. Stevedore won leverly by a length and a half, with Futurita three parts of a length before Duelist. The three parts of a length before Duelist. The time was 1:14 3-5.

In spite of numerous tips the wise men proceeded to unbelt on H. M. Mason's Remorse, who was made a 3 to 2 favorite in the second event, at a mile and seventy yards. There were twelve horses to go, and when Mr. Fitzgerald released the barrier there was a wild cry of despair, for Remorse was left at the post. "Father Bill" Dely's Carroll D. rushed to the front without delay and he held the lead up the back stretch, Mike Dwyer's Northbrook running neck and neck with him. Pageant and Past joined them on the turn and as the rest of the field closed up it looked like anybody's race. But suddenly there were hysterical yells from a small army of Tammany men and Howery policians who saw with bulking eyes the popular colors of Timothy D. Sullivan fisshing through the field at the last sixteentli. They were worn by Fuller who had the mount on Setauket, the colt having been played from 20 to 1 to fifteens just as the field went to the Dost.

"Tim gets all the money!" was the cry as Jockey Fuller carried off the riding honors of the day with three winners and a second. Shaw and Gannon each rode a winner and a second while Hoar handled a winner and a third.

While at the post for the Excelsior Handicap Fuller refused to take his position with Blackstock and was set down by Starter Fitzgerald for one week. Burns was fined $100 for declining to bring Herbert to the barrier when ordered to do so. Hoar and Lewis were each fined $23 for disobedience at the post in the first race.

It was Starter Fitzgerald's first appearance in his old position in the East since he was laid low by typhoid fever last summer. He has recovered his former good health and was busy all day receiving the congratulations of his many friends.

There were sixty-five members of the Metropolitan Turf Association doing business in the big ring and sixty-five in the field.

"Pittaburs Phil" dropped big money on Bath Beach in the Bushwick Stakes.

The Metropolitan Jockey Club intends to construct a steeplechase course through the field next year. There is plenty of room for it and the popularity of this branch of the turf demands it.

It was learned yesterday that a new exercise track a mile and an eighth in circumference will be constructed at Baratoga just back of Horse Haven, which will do away with the little track which has been used heretofore.

In numbering the stalls in the new paddock No. 13 has been omitted, probably because of the superstition of some trainers.

Collector Jessup, who was beaten a neck by Nameoki in the fifth race, is by Bel Demonlo-Crimea, and is the first of this sire's set to go the races.

Both Futurita and Chicle were tipped and backed down in the first race. In the second event John W. Schorr's Pericles was touted as a good thing. In the same event Past, Athelroy, Lord Advocate and Animostiy were tipped.

Collector Jessup was the good thing in the fifth event and would prob

The Brooklyns yesterday played their best game so far of the season. In batting, fielding and pitching they were strongly entrenched, and their work made that of the Philadelphias look feeble. Jones was altogether too much for the Quakers. His control was perfect. He did not give a base on balls, and singularly enough, did not strike out anybody. The Brooklyns started out in enterprising fashion and scored steadily until they had enough runs, when they rested on their oars as aggressors. What few hits the Philadelphias did get were scattered. The star of the day was Householder in centre field. Nothing that came anywhere near him escaped him, and one of his catches, a short fiy from Reister, was made on the dead run and headed in McCreedie hit safely four times. PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The advent of the New York American League team into the City of Brotherly Love this afternoon was not an altogether auspicious affair, from the New York point of view. From a local standpoint, however, it carried with it much joy to the bosoms of the Quaker rooters.
The New Yorkers did not have a look-in this afternoon. They could make absolutely no headway against the pitching of Bender.
They made but four hits all told, and they were scattered through as many invings.
They had no chance to score in any other way, for the fielding of the Philadelphias was faultless, while Bender's few gifts were scattered with the hits. Griffith, on the contrary, was hit hard at times, and the hits as a rule came in conjunction with Griffith's passes and the misplays of the fielders. Griffith gave two men bases on balls and hit two others, and all four scored.

Doubt as to Ciarkson's Eligibility.

New Haven, April 27.—A report is gaining credence among Yale undergraduates, questioning the eligibility of Walter Clarkson, captain of the Harvard baseball team. The story is that he played on the Newtown Club of Cambridge against the Malden professional team for a cash prize of $75 on or about May 25, 1899. The occasion was the 280th anniversary of the founding of the town of Malden. The Yale authorities believe there is little or nothing in the report, and feel, sure that the Harvard athletic advisers would have looked into the matter before now, had there been any ground for doing so. It was further learned to-day that a member of the visiting Tufts team, which palyed Yale a few weeks ago, said that the Tufts baseball management had evidence that Clarkson is a professional. who had been expected back in this country in time for the open tournament at their home club, St. Andrews, May, 20, 21, 22 and 23, will not return until June. They will be at Muirfield for the amateur championship of Great Britain this month and it is probable that one or both will try their luck in the great event of the links. Neither has been fortunate in our national championships that they have started in, but both were good players at Yale, and Reid, Jr., has been the Intercollegiate champion. To start at Muirfield must be regarded as an incident of their trips abroad, rather than as a special invasion in quest of international honors and the amateurs here and abroad will wish good luck to them. Besides the expected presence of the Australian amateur champion, the St. Andrews tournament will be of special interest through the appearance of David Baxter, the Carnoustic amateur, who is singing in ballad concerts here. He has been on the road too much to get much golf, but at Carnoustie he is a scratch player and in high esteem. Will Smith, the Midjothian professional, is an old-time opponent of Baxter, for he also halls from Carnoustie. One winter meeting on even terms, Smith won five and. Baxter four times in a series of matches. Among the players at Garden City yester-day, trying the course in expectation of the invitation tournament that begins on Thurs-day, were W. C. Celleges Again Defy A. A. U. and Run Diequalified Men in Open Centests.

The colleges have thrown down the gauntlet to the Amateur Athletic Union after a long controversy by running disqualified men at the Pennsylvania relay races on Saturday, and if the A. A. U. officials follow out their regulations the representatives of Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Chicago, Wisconsin, and Michigan who ran in the one and four-mile relay races will all have to be declared ineligible to compete. R. B. Hyatt of Yale, a competitor in the mile relay, was suspended during the winter along with the other members of the Yale basketball team which played the unregistered five of the Fifty-second street Y. M. C. A. which included Dr. Weizmiller, a professional athletic instructor, as a player.

Frank L. O'Connell a member of Columbia four-mile team which met six other colleges on Saturday, was also suspended during the winter while a member of the 'Varsity basketball team, on similar charges to those brought against Hyatt. Among the men who competed against these technical prefessions is were F. R. Moulton of Yale, the A. A. U. and Canadian quarter-mile champion and E. J. Clapp of Yale, who is the inter-cellegiste champion in the hurdles.

As the colleges resolved during the winter to disregard the basketball disqualifications of the A. A. U., and proceeded to play their scheduled games as if the disqualification had never taken place and without seeking reinstatement, so they are paying no attention to the A. A. U. in track athletics. qualified Men in Open Contests.
